EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT
SPRUCE STREET HARBOR PARK SUSTAINED BY UNIVEST

Now celebrating its fifth birthday thanks to its sustaining partner, Univest Bank and Trust Co., Spruce Street Harbor Park Sustained by Univest (SSHP) has become Philadelphia's most frequented summer staple. Featuring vibrant hammocks, Adirondack chairs, enchanting light fixtures, games, refreshing craft beers and bites from local restaurants, Spruce Street Harbor Park Sustained by Univest has been named one of the top attractions in Philadelphia by Time Out Magazine, Visit Philadelphia, Thrillist, Curbed, and others.

Opening for the season on May 11th, guests can enjoy weekly live music and various events throughout the summer months. The oasis, home to ducks and beavers, is returning and has been replanted, hammock lounges are available to be rented, and standup paddleboard yoga is gearing up. And, as always, the entire park is free for everyone to enjoy with food and beverages available for purchase. This year some exciting new food vendors will be introduced.

One of the most exciting new additions this year is Jazz in the Park every third Sunday from May - September. We'll be celebrating Philadelphia's rich jazz history with two traditional bands each week. Sit back, enjoy a beer, and listen to some of the best jazz musicians in town in one of the most magical parks in the city.

"Univest is proud to partner once again with the Delaware River Waterfront Corporation to make Spruce Street Harbor Park possible," said Jeff Schweitzer, President and CEO of Univest Corporation. "At Univest, we believe that building and supporting a strong community is paramount to cultivating the kind of culture we strive to create. There is no better embodiment of that than Spruce Street Harbor Park, a unifying place where everyone can gather, bring their families, and enjoy being outdoors in Philadelphia. We look forward to welcoming everyone on opening weekend and experiencing summer fun with you at SSHP."
